To Sir Robert Falconer,
University of Toronto, City.

Sir:

A great number of students from the University have been coming down here for their medical examination under the Military Service Act and I understand that there are still a large number to be examined.

If you would kindly advise us approximately how many men you have who come in Class 1 of the Military Service Act we would be glad to try and arrange to send one of our Medical Boards up to the University and give a day, or longer if necessary, to carrying out the examination of all students. This could very easily be done in the Gymnasium.

Trusting to hear from you at your earliest convenience,

I beg to remain,

Yours sincerely,

Alfred E. James

Memo for the President:

Re Examination of Students under the Military Service act

Major Barton is conferring with Capt. Christie (O.C. at the Armouries) in reference to the examination of students.

A large number of the students have already gone to the Armouries and it would hardly seem worth while to make any special arrangements for the remainder, apart from the question as to the advisability of the scheme suggested.

Lieutenant W. C. James,

The Armouries,

Toronto.

Dear Lieutenant James:

I have your letter with regard to the examination of students under the Military Service Act and have consulted Major Barton in regard to the matter. Major Barton is now conferring with Captain Christie at the Armouries. Already a large number of the students have gone to the Armouries and Major Barton is of opinion that it would hardly seem worth while to make any special arrangements for the remainder of the students.

Yours sincerely,

President.
